Bullying!

Last week our magazine got a letter from Rebecca (13). She has been bullied for the past four months and is scared to tell anyone, in case things get worse ...

Like Rebecca many of us are concerned about similar problems, that's why I'll try to give some advice on how to stop bullies.

First, mind that bullying isn't just a minor, childish problem. It's a crime and is punishable in court. Don't feel you are over-reacting if you're being bullied. If anyone hits you or pushes you around, they're committing assault – the law is on your side.

Bullies are not strong, powerful people. They're pathetic and insecure. They pick on people to prove that they can do something. They aren't good at anything else so they show off by pushing other people around.

Don't blame yourself if you're being bullied – you didn't ask for trouble. Bullies pick their victims randomly. It's not your fault.

The only way to stop bullies is to report them. You're only a victim as long as you suffer in silence. As soon as you tell someone in authority, the bullies have lost their power over you.

Don't worry about what will happen if you tell on someone who's picking on you. You're in the right and you'll be given help and support. As soon as a person becomes known as a bully, they're in trouble with the authorities.

If the bullying continues, report them again. You're the one who has the power over them; you can see that they're punished.

As you can see it is very important to be brave now. Feel free to speak to a teacher, parent or friend. If you have no-one to turn to or you would prefer to talk to someone in complete confidence, phone ChildLine on 0800 1111.

Teil II

5 BE

Give a summary of the text below in complete German sentences.

ChildLine is a free telephone helpline for children and young people, which received over 10,000 calls last year. You can ring any time of day, any day of the year. It's free and it's confidential – that means that no-one else will know about the conversation unless you decide to tell them. The call will not show up on the family phone bill, although it may if you use a mobile phone. Sometimes it's hard to get through, because the lines are all busy. But keep trying, you will get through eventually.

Teil III

IV.1 Choose a or b. 10 BE

a) Express in English.

AT THE POLICE DEPARTMENT

1. Sagen Sie, dass Ihr Rucksack gestohlen wurde.
2. Sagen Sie, dass es vor einer Stunde im Kaufhaus passiert sein muss.
3. Beschreiben Sie Größe, Aussehen und Inhalt Ihres Rucksacks.
4. Geben Sie Ihren Namen an und sagen Sie, dass Sie im Moment im Crown Hotel wohnen.
5. Fragen Sie, ob es möglich ist, hier einen neuen Pass zu bekommen.

b) THE PARTY

Imagine you spend three weeks in England taking part in an English language course. It's evening and you are sitting alone in the cafeteria. Suddenly a fellow student comes in. Complete the dialogue. Express your part in English and write it down.

Student: Hi. What's wrong with you?

1. You: Ich weiß nicht, ich fühle mich nicht gut.

Student: Are you ill?

2. You: Nein, nicht wirklich. Ich bin traurig, weil meine Freundin nach Deutschland zurückgefahren ist.

Student: Come on. Don't sit here alone. There's a party tonight. All the people of our course are coming.

3. You: Du hast Recht. Wo und wann treffen wir uns?

Student: Let's say at 7 - at the bus stop over there.

4. You: Soll ich irgendetwas mitbringen?

Student: That would be fine. We still need some crisps.

5. You: In Ordnung. Dann bis heute Abend. Ich werde dort sein.
