I'm Kimberly Lane and I come from Coober Pedy. That's in a desert region of South Australia. Summer brings high temperatures, flies and dust storms. During winter, night-time temperatures can be close to freezing. Nearly half of the town's residents live underground.

A didgeridoo,
a musical instrument of native Australians.

In my room you can see the natural colors of the earth. That's because I live in a cave. The walls aren't painted. Dust is always falling from the ceiling, which is sometimes a problem. But you get used to¹ it.

I like my room because it's big and I have a walk-in wardrobe. I love my posters. And I'm really proud of my trophies for golf, badminton, swimming and running. I had to work hard to get them.

My favorite things are my drum kit, my mini sound system and my CDs. I've been learning the drums for about four years. I chose to learn the drums because they're loud and you can play some really interesting beats. The noise doesn't disturb my parents because I'm at the other end of the house. And our walls, about 2.5 meters thick, are like barriers, so you can't hear anything when I'm playing.

Actually, I'm the one with the noise problems. When it's windy, the air comes down my airshaft² and sounds like a didgeridoo. In the middle of the night that can be a bit scary. And there is another problem which gets pretty annoying after a while. When they were making my room they tunneled into our next-door neighbors' house. Now there's only a brick wall between my room and their house and I can hear loud bangs and noises coming from there.

Oh, and there's one more thing I don't like – that my family uses my walk-in wardrobe as a storage room.

Write down a summary of the following text in German.
Write complete sentences.
Use the worksheet.

Living underground

A dugout³ is like a cave with rooms, about four meters underground. There are no windows to the outside so when you turn out the light, it's pitch black. You can't even see your hand ten centimeters from your face. But the temperature inside a dugout stays about 26 degrees Celsius all year round. During winter it feels really warm. And in summer it's lovely and cool while outside it gets up to around 40 to 45 degrees!
